FITISPos – University of Alcalá, Madrid, Spain - Training and Research in Public Service Translation and Interpreting

The FITISPos – Group (Training and Research in Public Service Translation and Interpreting), at University of Alcalá, Madrid, Spain, announces the 6th edition of the European University Master´s Degree in Intercultural Communication, Public Service Interpreting and Translation 2013-2014 (7th edition) 60 credits ECTS.

This postgraduate programme offered by the University of Alcalá focuses on the field of interpreting and translation from an intercultural perspective as it is given in combinations of 9 languages: Spanish and Arabic/Bulgarian/Chinese/English/French/German/Polish/Romanian/Russian.

The degree has a syllabus of 18 compulsory credits ECTS of an academic year and 42 compulsory ECTS for each pair of language.

It aims at training future professionals in public service translation and interpreting and preparing them to work as linguistic and cultural mediators between the staff working at healthcare centres, administrative institutions, education centres, etc. and people who use these services and cannot speak Spanish or do not speak it well.

One of its main modules is the Module on HEALTHCARE Translation and Interpreting, with onsite classes in the chosen pair of languages. It includes 2 subjects, focusing on practice with real documents used in the healthcare settings in general and specific contexts as well as simulation of typical and problematic situations:
Specialised Translation: Healthcare Settings (5 ECTS)
Interpreting in Healthcare Settings (5 ECTS)

Moreover, at the end of this Master´s Degree the students have the opportunity to go on investigating a PhD Degree in Modern Languages, Literature and Translation.
